AECOM appoints Kevin Lynch as Executive Vice President and Chief Strategy Officer

LOS ANGELES (May 6, 2014) — AECOM Technology Corporation, a leading provider of professional technical and management support services for public and private clients in more than 150 countries around the world, announced today that it has appointed Kevin Lynch as executive vice president and chief strategy officer.

In this role, Lynch will be responsible for advancing the company's global growth strategy in coordination with operations and corporate leaders across the company.

Lynch joins AECOM from Deloitte Consulting LLP, where he served as senior partner and worked with companies of all sizes and industries to shape and evaluate options for growth through acquisitions. Throughout his 25-plus-year career, Lynch has gained extensive experience in acquisition strategy, strategic and commercial due diligence, operating strategy development and growth, mergers & acquisitions (M&A) integration, and M&A effectiveness. Prior to joining Deloitte, he was director of the cross-industry strategy practice for PricewaterhouseCoopers.

"Kevin's successful track record of developing global growth strategies for large and complex organizations, as well as his deep experience across multiple industries, provides him with a unique perspective that aligns very well with AECOM's growth goals and vision," said Michael S. Burke, AECOM president and chief executive officer.

Lynch will be based at AECOM's headquarters in Los Angeles.
