

AECOM ranked #1 design firm by Engineering News-Record magazine

April 29, 2010

AECOM also moves up 106 spots to #352 on Fortune 500

LOS ANGELES, Apr 29, 2010 (BUSINESS WIRE) --AECOM Technology Corporation (NYSE: ACM), a leading provider of professional technical and management support services for government and commercial clients around the world, announced today that it is ranked as the #1 design firm by Engineering News-Record (ENR) magazine, a McGraw-Hill publication that released its annual list of the top 500 U.S. design firms in the April 26 issue.

The survey ranks the largest engineering, architectural and environmental design firms according to their revenue in those areas. ENR is widely considered to be the industry's preeminent U.S. trade publication. In addition to its #1 ranking in the top 500 list, AECOM continued its annual strong showing in ENR's market segment listings, ranking #1 in Pure Design, International, Transportation, and General Building.

"We are proud to be recognized as the top U.S. design firm by ENR," said John M. Dionisio, AECOM president and chief executive officer. "AECOM's continued success reflects our commitment to be the best at what we do globally - and to serving the best interests of our clients around the world."

AECOM also advanced more than 100 places to number 352 on the 2010 Fortune 500 listing of America's largest companies. AECOM's progression from number 458, when it debuted on the list in 2009, is the eighth largest jump for a company listed by Fortune.

AECOM is also highlighted in a special Fortune online feature recognizing firms that recorded double-digit sales and profit growth in 2009. AECOM is the only company among its peer group included in the feature.
